About The Meeting

This CME activity provides a broad overview of breast imaging from screening basics to brand new technologies. A major focus is on breast MRI. Screening guidelines and controversies, along with biopsy, tomosynthesis and ultrasound applications will be discussed. Rounding out the program are multiple case discussions designed to tie the didactic lectures to every day practice.

Target Audience

This CME activity is designed to educate radiologists and referring physicians with an interest in breast imaging.

Scientific Sponsor

Educational Symposia

Accreditation

Physicians: Educational Symposia is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education (ACCME) to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

Educational Symposia designates this live activity for a maximum of 12.0 AMA PRA Category 1 Credit(s)TM. Physicians should claim only the credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.

Educational Objectives

Attendees should, at the completion of this course, be able to:

- Review screening mammography principles.
- Discuss the utility of breast tomosynthesis in the screening setting.
- Describe the current application of breast ultrasound.
- Explain the utility of breast MRI in the screening and diagnostic setting.

No special educational preparation is required for this CME activity.
